Dike Ceremonies Set For Friday

GROUND-BREAKING ceremonies for the Stroudsburg-East Stroudsburg flood control project will take place Friday at 3 p.m. along Broadheads Creek near the East Stroudsburg Playground.

Headlining the program will be Dr. Maurice K. Goddard, Pennsylvania secretary of forests and waters. He will be introduced by Charles R. Bensinger, of Stroudsburg, president of the Water Resources Association of the Delaware River Basin.

The ceremonies had been scheduled originally for today but were postponed, Dr. Goddard told The Daily Record, because he will be unable to be here today. A number of other state, county and local officials also reported the original date conflicted with previous commitments.

The ground-breaking will initiate the building of $1,473,383 flood control project on the Broadheads, McMichaels and Sambo Creeks in the area. It is one of the largest local flood protection projects ever undertaken by the Commonwealth.

The construction, one of seven such major permanent flood control works, is to be built as a result of the disastrous 1955 flood.

Elmhurst Contracting Co., of Corona, N.Y., will construct the project.

Burgess Edward A. Doran and Jesse R. S. Flory, of Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg respectively, will be heading the local dignitaries.

County and local representatives will also be present at the festivities.

Among other groups will be officials from the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce, Pennsylvania Power and Light Co., Metropolitan Edison Co., Bell Telephone Co., The Daily Record, Monroe County Manufacturers Assn., Citizens' Committee, Pocono Mountains Industries Assn., borough officials and numerous other units and affiliations.

The public is also invited to attend the ceremonies.

Dogs, Rabbit Carried By Red Rocket

MOSCOW (AP)—A rocket has carried two dogs and a rabbit to a height of 208 kilometers (130 miles) and they were recovered safely, Tass said Monday night.

(The height achieved by America's famed space monkeys, Able and Baker, in May last year was 300 miles.)

The Soviet news agency said the launching was made last month with a single-stage ballistic rocket hauling weight in instruments and animals of 4,629 pounds. It said valuable information was obtained on conditions in the upper layers of the atmosphere and the condition of the animals after landing was satisfactory.

Tass also reported the flight had provided new details about "the muscular tone of animals in conditions of weightlessness."

Khru Stays At U.S. Built Hotel

LINZ, Austria (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev spent the night in a plush hotel built with Marshall Plan funds.

The hotel is the best in Linz. A silver plaque in the lobby, under a U.S. coat of arms, explains the hotel was built under the European recovery program.

Demand French Concessions

Rebels Break Off Talks

TUNIS (AP)—The leaders of the Algerian nationalist rebellion Monday refused to continue peace talks with France without concessions.

Their decision put off the possibility of an end to the Algerian war which has claimed more than 150,000 lives over the past 5½ years.

It was good news for French settlers in Algeria who had feared an immediate compromise with the Moslem nationalists.

There was no immediate reaction from Paris.

A communiqué by the rebel government based in Tunis again placed the responsibility for the continuation of the war on France. It said that unless concessions demanded by a preliminary rebel delegation last week were granted, the arrival of a main rebel peace mission in France "could not at present contribute to the solution of the problem."

Among the conditions asked by the rebels are permission for contacts with imprisoned rebel leaders and with the world press and public opinion.

The rebels offered to send another delegation to France should the French government be willing to revise its stands.

Traffic Deaths Over Holiday Hit New Record

By The Associated Press

THE DEATH TOLL on the nation's highways Monday night leaped past the preholiday National Safety Council estimate, 370, and zeroed in on a record for a three-day July Fourth observance.

A council spokesman said only a miracle could prevent the death count from breaking the record 407 traffic deaths set in the 1955 three-day Independence Day weekend.

This year's July fourth toll also passed the figure for the recent three-day Memorial Day weekend, 367, and for the last three-day Independence Day weekend in 1958, 370.

By Monday night highway fatalities averaged five an hour, with homeward bound weekenders still jamming the roads. The 78-hour weekend ends officially at midnight Monday.

Boating, Swimming Deaths

Boating accidents and drownings that did not involve boats added to the holiday toll. Although no deaths were reported in fireworks mishaps, a little boy—Joseph Sidde, 5, of San Francisco—suffered second degree burns Monday when he ignited a sparkler against his parent's orders.

The council had predicted that virtually all of the 73 million automobiles, trucks and buses in the country would be on the move at one time or another during the holiday period that extended from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Monday.

Nevertheless, Liberal-Democratic Secretary-General Shojiro Kawashima called Kurihara's re-election "a great victory."

"From beginning to end," Kawashima said, "the governor's race was fought over the pros and cons of our new security treaty with the United States."

Most of the fatalities occurred singly. Some accidents killed two or three, and one—near Spring Green, Wis.—wiped out seven lives.

During the recent three-day Memorial Day observance there were 367 deaths in traffic, 48 in boating accidents, 77 drownings that did not involve boats and 87 from various other causes for a total of 579.

Comparable Period

An Associated Press survey of a non-holiday weekend, a three-day span from 6 p.m. Friday, June 17, to midnight Monday, June 20, showed 348 deaths in traffic, 25 in boating accidents, 81 drownings and 68 in the miscellaneous bracket for an over-all figure of 522.

The record all-accident toll for a three-day Independence Day period was set in 1955. It was 805.

The record traffic toll for any Independence Day celebration was set in a four-day period in 1950. It was 491.

The record traffic total for any holiday period was set in a four-day Christmas observance in 1956. It was 706.

Motorcycle Rams Rail; One Killed

His son, Stephen Jr., 12, riding with him, was injured slightly.

British Retain Bases

LONDON (AP)—Britain will retain two sovereign bases totaling 99 square miles on Cyprus when the island colony gets its independence, the British government announced Monday.

But the government would rather accept the Barmecide with a conventional warhead than permit U. S. control over nuclear warheads.

These terms, as reported in the House of Commons again Monday by the Prime Minister, are that any nuclear weapons obtained for Canadian forces "would be under Canadian control and would be used in Canada only as the result of a decision by the Canadian government."

U. S. law holds that American nuclear warheads must remain under U. S. control.

In her letter to the attorney general, Mrs. Vannatta said in part: "At a recent Upper Mt. Bethel Township School Board Directors meeting, a school director who holds the office of secretary of the school board admitted before approximately 30 residents of our township that it was the practice of the school board to vote $1500 annually to the school board treasurer as compensation, with the definite understanding and agreement that the treasurer retain $750 and divide the remaining $750 among the three (other) school directors who

Sight Raft In Hunt For Six Fliers

BODO, Norway (AP)—An object resembling a raft was sighted in the sea Monday as U.S. airplanes searched icy arctic waters for a U.S. reconnaissance bomber and its six-man crew which vanished Friday night.

The raft was spotted near Norway's Bear Island, half way between Norway and Spitsbergen Island.

A U.S. Air Force rescue plane, taking part in the search for the missing RB47 reconnaissance bomber, reported sighting the object and said "it might be a raft from the aircraft."

The coordinator of the search, Norwegian Rescue Center Chief Rolf Bentzen, said however, that too much hope should not be pinned on the discovery.

The RB47 was last reported about 130 miles north of the Soviet Kola Peninsula.

U.S. embassy officials said they know nothing about a published report that the Soviet Union would be asked to aid in the search.

A Soviet cruiser reported Saturday night it was on the way to join the search but it has not been heard from since.

Norwegian experts said even if the crewmen managed to get into their dinghies they could not have possibly survived this long. Direct exposure to the water would bring death in 20 to 30 minutes, they added.

U.S. Terms Too Stiff For Canada

OTTAWA (AP)—As matters stand, Canada won't get U. S. nuclear weapons for Canadian forces in this country, it was reliably reported Monday.

The United States apparently has been unwilling to accept conditions laid down by Prime Minister John Diefenbaker.

These terms, as reported in the House of Commons again Monday by the Prime Minister, are that any nuclear weapons obtained for Canadian forces "would be under Canadian control and would be used in Canada only as the result of a decision by the Canadian government."

Eight Red Oil Ships Due In Cuba In July

HAVANA (AP)—At least eight ships carrying more than 60,000 tons of Soviet crude oil are due in Havana this month, authorities here reported Monday.

The total shipment, representing about seven days supply at the present rate of consumption, is intended to help Fidel Castro's regime meet the threat of an economy-crippling oil shortage.

The oil will be refined in plants seized from U. S. and British-Dutch companies after they refused to process Soviet crude.

One of the ships reported en route here, was listed as the 19,500-ton Soviet tanker Peking. A tanker named Peking collided with a Norwegian tanker off the coast of Tunisia earlier Monday.

French officials at Bizerte in northern Tunisia said they were informed the tanker was Soviet.

Still earlier, Moscow had announced that the 19,500-ton Red Chinese tanker, Peking, among the world's largest, was being prepared to carry oil to Cuba.

There was no immediate clarification as to the nationality of the tanker involved in the collision.

25,000-Ton Ship

Sources here said the Peking is one of two identical tankers, both Soviet, with a capacity of 25,000 tons.

But Lloyd's Register of Ships lists only one Peking and gives its registry as Red Chinese.

French officials at Bizerte said the ship received a smash in the bow but was able to proceed on its own power.

They said the Norwegian ship, the 15,067-ton Ronnefjell, was being towed into Bizerte. One crewman was injured seriously.

Alfonso Gutierrez, a Mexican engineer who heads Castro's powerful National Petroleum Institute, said the Peking was due here about July 15.

Cuba has no diplomatic relations with Red China, but does maintain extensive commercial and cultural connections with Peking. Both Peking and Moscow are seeking to extend their influence in Cuba.

Cuban officials have expressed confidence they can solve any oil problems with the help of friendly nations. But problems already are cropping up.

Extra Fuel

The government-owned Cuban Airline carries extra fuel on its Havana-Miami runs in an effort to avoid spending scarce U. S. dollars for refueling in Miami.

A Cuban airliner en route to Havana was stalled in Madrid for several hours because of inability to purchase gasoline. It finally was able to take off Monday after U. S. oil company officials agreed to supply the fuel on credit "just this once."

The airline also is having difficulties with crewmen. A Mexico-bound plane was delayed more than 1½ hours at Havana International Airport Monday when crew members were removed by military investigators.

Witnesses said the plane left only after a new crew was summoned to take over the flight. Presumably the detentions were in connection with the investigation of an alleged anti-Castro plot against aviation personnel.

Reds To Head School

HAVANA (AP)—An anti-Communist group of Havana University students said in a statement Monday night Prime Minister Fidel Castro planned to take over the school and operate it with foreign Communist professors.

They said the group would not otherwise get money from the school fund. It was also clearly stated that the treasurer's job was rotated so that each school director would get a chance to collect the larger sum.

The letter further stated: "We believe our public servants have violated their oath of office and have conspired to take money unto themselves unlawfully by voting an amount of money in the disguise of allowable salary to the treasurer with the definite understanding that the money be clandestinely divided with others who are not lawfully allowed compensation."

Also: "We feel that if found guilty of the above indiscretions these men should be removed from office and be compelled to return unlawfully taken state and township school monies."

MT. BETHEL — The Upper Mt. Bethel Township Taxpayers Assn. has sent a letter to Anne X. Alpern, Pennsylvania's attorney general, questioning a fiscal practice of the township school board and its directors.

The letter was sent under the signature of Mrs. Ella Vannatta, chairman of the association. It charges "indiscretions" in the ousting of school funds and asks that the directors "be removed from office and be compelled to return unlawfully taken" monies.

In her letter to the attorney general, Mrs. Vannatta said in part: "At a recent Upper Mt. ## Rejects HST Request He Step Aside

NEW YORK (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy emphatically declined Monday former President Harry S. Truman's invitation to step aside in his bid for the Democratic presidential nomination.

He also disputed Truman's implication that the Democratic convention was rigged in Kennedy's favor.

"I do not intend to step aside at anyone's request," Kennedy told nationwide television and radio audience. "I was the only candidate to risk my chances in all the primaries—the only one to visit every state."

Kennedy said he was ready for the presidency because a new generation of leadership is needed to cope with new problems and new opportunities.

The Massachusetts senator interrupted a vacation with his family on Cape Cod to fly here to answer Truman's charges.

Defends His Age

Truman told a news conference in Independence, Mo., last Saturday that he had resigned as a delegate to the Democratic convention in Los Angeles July 12 because he did not want to be a party to "proceedings that are taking on the aspects of a prearranged affair."

Truman also asked Kennedy, 43, to put aside personal ambitions, saying the senator lacks the maturity and experience to fill the presidency in a troubled world.

Monday, Truman was not immediately available for comment on Kennedy's reply.

Won't Withdraw

"I have encountered and survived every kind of hazard and opposition," said Kennedy, "and I do not intend to withdraw my name now, on the eve of the convention."

On Truman's "prearranged" convention charge, Kennedy answered:

"In response, let me say to the extent that I have anything to do with it, it will be an open convention—as every convention of our broadly based party is open—even though our candidate has been selected on the first ballot in every single convention but one since 1932 (including the 1948 convention which nominated 'Mr. Truman')."

"To me, an open convention means one reflecting the free will of delegates freely elected in contested primaries and state conventions."

About his maturity, Kennedy pointed out that he had served 18 years in the service of his country—as a World War II naval officer and as a member of Congress for the last 14 years.

"I have traveled in every continent and country—and in the last few years alone, in every one of the 50 states—more than any other active presidential contender now or in history, to the best of my knowledge," he added.

Truman, in his news conference, had listed 10 other Democrats who would be good presidential possibilities. About this, Kennedy said:

"If we are to establish a test for the presidency whereby 14 years in major elective office is insufficient experience, then all but three of the 10 possibilities mentioned by Mr. Truman must be ruled out—all but a handful of our presidents since the very founding of the nation should have been ruled out—and every president elected to that office in the 20th century should have been ruled out, including three great Democratic presidents: Woodrow Wilson, Franklin Roosevelt and Harry Truman himself."

"It is true, of course, that almost all of the major world leaders today—on both sides of the Iron Curtain—are men past the age of 65," he added.

Commission Cracks Down

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Trade Commission announced Monday a nationwide crackdown against alleged false advertising of contact lenses.

Among claims challenged by the FTC were those that all persons can successfully wear contact lenses, that the lenses cause no discomfort, and that they offer a complete substitute for eye glasses.

According to the commission, a significant number of people cannot successfully wear contact lenses, and practically all will experience some discomfort at first. Also, the FTC contended in a statement, discomfort will be prolonged, if not permanent, in a significant number of cases.

Separate complaints were filed against 10 sellers of contact lenses from coast to coast, and FTC officials said they expect more to be filed later.

Sen. Kennedy's Health An Issue

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Lyndon B. Johnson's supporters made the health of Sen. John F. Kennedy a hot issue Monday night by asserting the Massachusetts senator has suffered from Addison's disease and owes his life to cortisone.

Addison's disease is caused by adrenal deficiency.

A spokesman of Kennedy — the front-running candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination — declared later that the Johnson people are engaging in "despicable tactics."

The statements about Kennedy's health came from John Connally, executive director of the Johnson campaign, and Mrs. India Edwards, co-chairman of the Citizens for Johnson National Committee. The Texas senator has not announced his candidacy, but is expected to do so shortly.

Emmaus Boy Drowns In River

He had been using a tube to swim in the river and his body was found in only a few feet of water.

Dear Abby

Lying Is A Symptom

Dear Abby: What is wrong with a person who would rather lie than tell the truth? I thought Elsie was the most wonderful girl in the world. Then I started to catch her in all sorts of lies. I found out she was a housemaid instead of a stenographer like she said. She told me her parents were dead — I found out they were alive. She said she was born in one place — I learned she was born some place else.

When I catch her in a lie, she readily confesses and feels ashamed. I love this girl, Abby, and was considering marriage. But how can I marry her when I can't believe anything she says? Is lying a disease? Is it curable?

UNDECIDED

Dear Undecided: Lying is not a "disease"—it is a symptom. People lie because they feel inferior, inadequate and insecure. If you love Elsie, try to help her. Lying is curable — only if the liar will make a sincere effort to help herself.

Dear Abby: I was married three weeks ago by our minister in his small chapel. I knew at the time that I was at least two months pregnant, but I didn't advertise the fact. I am telling everybody that we were married three months ago by a Justice of the Peace in a small town near here. (I made it up because of the baby coming.) I want to know if anyone wanted to call up the Justice of the Peace in that small town and ask him if he really married us, would they be able to find out he didn't?

WORRIED BRIDE

Dear Abby: Possibly. There is nothing confidential about public records. It would be up to the Justice of the Peace to reveal or conceal the information.

Dear Abby: My sister has two big, strong, healthy daughters, 16 and 20. They both live at home. The older one has a job. My sister's home is as beautiful as any magazine picture, but if you walked into the girls' bedroom you would get the shock of your life! It is cluttered as a pigeon. Clothes piled everywhere. Petticoats standing all around. Shoes all over. Cosmetics and magazines enough to fill a store. I asked my sister why she permitted this and she said she was through talking her heart out. She says she shuts her door and pretends the room isn't there.

Don't you think she is wrong for taking this "don't care" attitude? Shouldn't those girls be made to clean up their room? Don't print my name, just your answer, as I have been told already it is none of my business.

CONCERNED AUNT

Dear Aunt: Your sister has apparently made her decision, so don't stir up trouble where there is none. Personally, I would see to it that the girls cleaned their room and kept it tidy. But the home isn't mine, neither are the girls. And may I remind you, neither are they yours.

Confidential To "Losing the Battle": You signed yourself appropriately. A man has been known to divorce his wife—but he has never been known to divorce his mother.

Dear Abby: Will you please offer a suggestion to help our family (and I'm sure many others) toward a more pleasant dinner hour?

The head of our house has personality, looks, position and a family who could love him, but he makes life miserable for everyone at the dinner table. He picks that time to criticize, scold and berate the children for their grades, dress and past mistakes. And every subject that is brought up, he turns into an argument.

After preparing a delicious dinner, it is very disheartening to go through this ordeal every night. I am deeply concerned when I think how, in years to come, my children will remember "the dinner hour" at our home.

DISTRAUGHT MOTHER

Dear Mother: Tell your husband (privately, of course) that any criticism or scolding can wait until after the dessert—and then he should direct his remarks only to the one who has it coming. Announce that only "happy talk" is allowed at dinner, and give each child an opportunity to tell something of interest that occurred that day. And by the way, Mother, why not start your dinner with a little prayer thanking God for the food and the blessings of good health which enable you all to sit together at the table? You may find it impossible to quarrel after that.

Overweight Seen Cutting Life's Span

WESCOESVILLE — A California nutritionist and physician said here that for every ounce a person is overweight you can subtract 2.6 days from his life.

Not only is life shortened, but obesity materially contributes to many ailments sustained during life.

These are the opinions of Dr. John A. Scharffenberg, of Arlington, Calif., director of the International Nutrition Research Foundation, who spoke Sunday at the 50th annual summer conference of East Pennsylvania Seventh-day Adventists now in session in Wescoesville.

Proof that life expectancy is less with excessive fat has been substantiated by studies made by large life insurance companies and also by researchers, said Scharffenberg.

The California physician began Saturday a series of addresses on Nutrition as is related to health.

The visiting speaker joined the Research Foundation as associate director in 1958 and is now its director. The objectives of the organization are to do research in the field of nutrition and to educate the public regarding known nutritional facts.

'Huckleberry Finn' Set For Sherman

"THE Adventures of Huckleberry Finn," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer film version of Mark Twain's classic novel, is being released at an appropriate time. This year marks the 75th anniversary of the story's first publication in the United States and the 50th anniversary of Twain's death.

The "Adventures of Huckleberry Finn" was first printed in this country in March, 1885. Its author died April 21, 1910, in Redding, Connecticut.

Twain apparently never thought of his novel as anything more than a rousing adventure story. In his foreword he wrote: "Notice: Person attempting to find a motive in this narrative will be prosecuted; persons attempting to find a moral in it will be banished; persons attempting to find a plot in it will be shot."

Nor could Twain's expectations have been raised by "Huckleberry Finn's" first reception by publishers and critics. Although it is now referred to as The Great American Novel, it was flayed by most critics. Others ignored it.

Surprisingly, this most American of novels first was published abroad. It was put out by an English publisher on December 6, 1884. Other publications in Germany and Canada preceded the first American edition. However, in a matter of weeks after its release, more than 50,000 persons had read the book, first evidence that the critics had been wrong in their appraisal. New editions, appearing periodically, have found millions of readers in all age groups.

Unusual

"That is one of the unusual aspects of the book," said Samuel Goldwyn, Jr., the film's producer. "Youngsters read it as a boyhood adventure story. Adults read it years after having enjoyed it during childhood and discover much more in it. In filming the story we tried to capture this universal appeal. The characters Twain drew, the colorful life on the Mississippi River, which he described so accurately, the conflicts and the comedy provide ideal ingredients for film entertainment. And if people want to find a touch of social significance in the picture, as many did in the book, it's there, too."

In casting "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn," Goldwyn Jr., and Director Michael Curtiz combed the ranks of leading performers in movies, stage and television to find players they felt could best bring to life the Twain characters.

New Jersey Corps Tops In 'Brass'

BANGOR — New Jersey American Legion Posts swept all the top places in the third "Serenade In Brass" contest, sponsored by the Bangor Yellow Jackets and the E. H. Evans Post 378, at Bangor Memorial Stadium Saturday.

The Drum and Bugle Corps contest saw the Perth Amboy "Amboy Dukes" take first place and other New Jersey Legion Post groups taking the top four out of five slots.

Posts represented at the Bangor Memorial Park Field were the "Colonial Cavaliers" of Port Ewen, N.J., Post 1298, second place "The Colonials," Morristown, N.J., Post 59, third place, "The Volunteers," of Lambertville, N.J., Post 120, taking fourth place; and the "Roseto Chieftains," Roseto, Pa., Post 750, fifth place.

Before an estimated crowd of 5,000 spectators, the groups drummed and bugled, marched and maneuvered around the Bangor field for the judges. The "Amboy Dukes" won a total of 77 points out of a possible 100.

Sponsored by two The contest was sponsored by the Yellow Jackets Inc., Drum and Bugle Corps, and the E. H. Evans American Legion Post No. 378. On July 22, the Yellow Jackets will travel to Philadelphia to vie for the State Title for Drum and Bugle Corps.

The "Amboy Dukes" played a mixture of Gay Nineties music and musical scores on Broadway plays. The Roseto "Chieftains" played old favorites such as the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" and "Bye Bye Blues," to mention a few.

The Dukes are newcomers to the Drum and Bugle competition, having been organized in 1958, while the Morristown Colonials are one of the oldest groups in the state of New Jersey.

The Roseto group was organized shortly after World War II, and the Lambertville "Volunteers" and the Port Ewen "Colonial Cavaliers" were organized from 30 to 40 years ago.

Head Committee

The committee for the contest included Dave King, chairman; John I. ## Titan Veers Out Of Control

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The first operational prototype of the intercontinental-range Titan veered sharply out of control and was destroyed about 300 feet above its launching pad.

The fiery explosion ended a string of six straight successful test flights for the Titan program, which has made tremendous strides since being delayed by a series of mishaps late last year.

The 98-foot giant, powered by a modified engine, rumbled skyward at 12:29 p.m. on the start of an intended 5,000-mile flight. It was apparent almost immediately that something was wrong. The missile rose unsteadily, lurched violently to the left and nosed over.

Aiding Khrushchev

An excerpt from the 7,500-word exchange between Premier Khrushchev and AFL-CIO leaders at a San Francisco meeting last September reads like this:

President Walter P. Reuther, of the United Auto Workers: "Can you give us a single example in which one of your unions ever disagreed with (Soviet) government policy?"

Mr. Khrushchev: "Why poke your nose into our business?"

We wonder whether the full text of this exchange has been carefully studied by the U.S. union leaders who departed Sunday for a tour of the Soviet Union.

This defiance of the stated AFL-CIO policy against exchange visits with the Soviet labor movement will certainly be made to sound more important on the other side of the Iron Curtain than it really is.

It looks as though the 11 union officials who are taking the tour this month are playing into the hands of Premier Khrushchev, at least for propaganda purposes within Russia and among its satellites.

Opinions Of Other Editors

The Enjoyment Of Walking

People who don't walk don't know what they are missing.

That is a literal statement.

Automobile travel is so fast, even at a legal speed, that drivers who keep their eyes on the roads do not get a chance to see any but the most conspicuous features of the landscape. Their passengers fare little better.

Even a bicycle is too fast to give the rider a chance to see and savor all the details of his surroundings. Only the walker moves slowly enough to notice and enjoy the little things along the way.

For this reason it is unfortunate that walking has gone out of style, almost to the point that modern life makes scant provision for those who like to view the world from a pedestrian's point of view. There are no pedestrian paths along the highways any more, and not every bridge is built with a walk for those who travel on foot.

One who does undertake to walk for pleasure often finds that the greatest obstacle is the kindly effort of people in cars to give him a lift. The only way to take a walk along any well-traveled highway is to adopt the technique of hitchhikers, who often hang a sign on their back, giving their destination. The dedicated walker may have to carry a sign saying, "I Just Want To Walk."

Walking has the reputation of being the best possible exercise for all the muscles in the body — if one does enough of it to give those muscles a workout. But more than that, it is the best possible exercise for the eyes, and the mind, and the spirit, for it gives the walker a chance to get acquainted with the real appearance of the world around him.

The automobile rider on Main St. gets no chance to window shop. The automobile rider on a country road has no time to see whether the bird that swoops from a telephone pole is a red-wing blackbird or a stunted crow.

The mere sensation of speed has replaced the pleasure of walking for many people who have all but forgotten what it feels like to step off a brisk mile.

In letting ourselves be swept into the motor age so fast that our legs have almost become obsolete, we have been missing one of life's simplest and most universal pleasures — the sensation of comprehending and appreciating the whole outdoors as only a walker can.

—Lock Haven Express

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Keep Khrushchev Out

Again and again, Nikita Sergeevich Khrushchev has interfered in the American election campaign. He has declined to continue negotiations for disarmament at Geneva because P is aident according to the aforesaid Khrushchev.

He will negotiate further with the United States when it has a President who pleases him. Eisenhower no longer pleases him; besides Ike will last only until January. Then somebody else will be President. Why waste time with a man who retires in January?

It is no longer amusing that some Democrats and even some Republicans would play ducks and drakes with our foreign policy because it is a Presidential campaign and speeches have to be made.

Senator Fulbright advocates that the Presidential campaign be open for a full discussion of foreign affairs. Many of us have advocated that since 1932, the last time that any major subject of national interest was discussed in a Presidential election.

During the Depression and the war years, it was regarded as a sin to hold an indepen-ent view on any subject. If one differed from Franklin D. Roosevelt, he was painted as a Fascist, a Nazi, or pro-Japanese.

By all means, let us restore freedom of thought and freedom of speech. But freedom always entails risks. The candidate that turns out to be Khrushchev's man will not be elected. There may be splinter votes in Khrushchev's denunciation of American candidates or his promise of them, but there are no American votes in it.

Khrushchev's hatred for Eisenhower not only breaches the bounds of propriety but requires psychological rather than political explanation. The "Spirit of Camp David" was a Khrushchev phrase and was used by the Kremlin for propagandistic purposes throughout the world. It represented a Khrushchev victory.

The hatred for Eisenhower, the bitter attacks on the man personally, the costly world-wide propaganda to destroy President Eisenhower's reputation not only currently but in history present a vindictiveness hardly expected among serious-minded men.

It sounds like the chatter of those little men on the fringes of cafe society who betray, belie and denounce to appear smart and important. It really does not sound at all like Khrushchev who worked his way to the top by tough steps.

This curious radioteletype was sent from Peking on June 17 to Europe and Asia: "Eisenhower is going to visit our islands. The one who is coming surely has bad intentions. He could not have come with good intentions. He is the chief of U. S. imperialism. Like Dulles in the past, he has always harbored bad intentions toward you. More than a year ago, Dulles went to your islands to bring pressure to bear upon you.

"At that time, we conducted shelling operations and you resisted the Americans, and Dulles failed to achieve what he wished. Now Dulles is dead, but the U. S. ambition to annex Taiwan is far from dead. Eisenhower's policy is the very same policy of Dulles. Eisenhower is our enemy, so is the enemy of all patriotic patriots in Taiwan, Pengu, Quemoy, and Matsu."

Then this message proceeds: "The reputation of U. S. imperialism stinks more and more. Not long ago, Eisenhower sabotaged the four-power conference of heads of government and was opposed by people all over the world. The people of many countries in Asia have been subjected to long and acute oppression by the United States, and so their resistance to it is the strongest."

President Eisenhower does not deserve this. In the United States his policy has been criticized as too pacifistic, as too ready to give way to the slightest indication of a hope for a peaceful agreement.

Think of what Eisenhower has taken from the Cubans! On June 16, the Radio Mambi of Havana, produced an "Open letter to His Majesty," which started with these words:

"To his Majesty, Caesar Attila Nero Eisenhower I, the emperor of the United States and adjacent democracies. The Imperial White House, Washington, seat of the 'Yankee' empire."

In this Presidential election, Khrushchev will try to use every means available to him to intervene, to meddle, to seek to have a man satisfactory to him, elected.

Some candidate may even boast that he can get along with Khrushchev. Who knows how long Khrushchev will last? But no matter how long, let us resolve to keep him out of our affairs.

The Pennsylvania Story

Modern Highways?

(First of a Series of Two) Harrisburg — The past Fourth of July weekend with its ofttime vehicle-clogged highways unquestionably prompted more than one irked Pennsylvania motorist to wonder what has happened to Pennsylvania's much talked about "highway modernization program."

The question is timely in many respects other than the past holiday weekend.

But also of extreme importance is the question of where-withal—or finances—to build new and modernize existing facilities.

It follows therefore that no report on Pennsylvania's highways can be adequate without a glance at the status of Pennsylvania's Department of Highway finances. A good starting point revolves around the simple fact of highway contracts awarded. The record of the past ten years is interesting.

Largest volume of work — contracts awarded, that is — occurred last year, but in 1958 when the total was $244 million.

Curiously — and interestingly — last year (1959) was the smallest in terms of volume of new contracts awarded, or around only $61 million.

Highway users (and who isn't today!) might well ask why.

Basically there are two reasons. First, there was a tremendous cash balance in the Motor License Fund — $140 million on June 1, 1957 and $105 million on April 1, 1958 — as compared with a June 1, 1959 balance of only $62 million, and down to less than $45 million by June 1, 1960. (The June 1 date is always the beginning of the new fiscal year for Pennsylvania.)

Second reason: In 1959 Congress applied the brakes to the highway program that had been so sharply accelerated in 1958.

Today on the basis of present tax legislation, the Pennsylvania Department of Highways normally can expect about $268½ million in revenue from exclusively state sources.

(One of these sources is the liquid fuels tax—but curiously this year the Governor's Budget Secretary estimates an annual revenue from the liquid fuels tax at $160,400,000—even though the greatest amount received from this source heretofore was $148 million, in the 1958-59 fiscal year.)

By law the department disperses to other and allied agencies some $67 million each year. This includes such items as $30 million to cities, boroughs and townships (under the so-called "Home Rule" Act); $12½ million to the Pennsylvania State Police; $10 million to the Department of Revenue; $4 million to the State Treasury Department; $3 million to the State Department; $2 million to the Department of Labor and Industry, plus about $5 million in "string" allocations to other departments on Capitol Hill.

Where else does the $268½ million "income" filter away? "Fixed" annual charges? Round out to $140½ million! These items include maintenance and resurfacing of the 41,700-mile state system; $65 million; Engineering costs (both contracts awarded and department engineering); $26 million; State Highway and Bridge Authority rentals; $9 million; Administration; $9 million; Tools, land and buildings; $6 million; Right-of-way acquisition costs (state share only); $25 million; and maintenance and construction of other than state roads; $1 million.

Add these two overall categories together — $140½ million and $67 million—and you have about $60½ million left of the original "revenue" of $268 million. But from this (for 1960 only) must be deducted $3 million for the projected new State Motor Vehicle office building, leaving only about $57¼ million for "new" construction during the year!

The Allen-Scott Report

Kennedy Wants Pledge

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — Senator John Kennedy wants the Los Angeles convention to adopt the same "loyalty pledge" that was approved in 1956—with the acquiescence of Southern leaders.

The front-running presidential candidate is strongly opposed to making it any tougher. He considers the 1956 declaration "wholly adequate."

That stand has been conveyed by Kennedy to top convention officials including Governor LeRoy Collins, Fla., permanent chairman; Rep. Chester Bowles, Conn., head of the Platform Committee; Gov. Herschel Loveless, Ia., chairman of the Rules Committee, and National Chairman Paul Butler.

Butler is vigorously pressing for a more stringent "loyalty pledge."

In this backstage maneuvering, he is being supported by California National Committeeman Paul Ziffren, recently defeated for re-election, who, like Butler, is on the way out, and by leaders of Americans for Democratic Action, who are spear-heading the "dark horse" drive for Adlai Stevenson.

Seeking Kennedy's help on this explosive issue, Butler had him sounded out by Representative Bowles — a Kennedy backer who owes his chairmanship of the influential Platform Committee largely to Butler.

This stratagem proved unavailing. Kennedy's reply was prompt and emphatic.

"The 1956 'loyalty pledge' is entirely agreeable to me, and I see no reason for changing it," he told Bowles. "If there is going to be a fight with the South at the convention, it should not be over this declaration. It should be over something substantive, like the platform, and not over a side issue like the loyalty statement."

The 1956 pledge was drafted by former Governor John Battle, Va., and Senator Hubert Humphrey, Minn. It was accepted by the Southern delegations and Senator Richard Russell, Ga., their leader.

Key sections of this compromise declaration, overwhelmingly approved by the convention, are:

"It is understood that the delegates to the Democratic national convention, when elected by the state Democratic party, are bona fide Democrats who have the interests, welfare and success of the Democratic party at heart, and will participate in the convention in good faith, and therefore no additional assurances can be required of delegates to the Democratic national convention in absence of credentials contest or challenge."

Convention Flashes — For a change, National Chairman Paul Butler will have some non-controversial word for the delegates. In his "farewell address" the Indiana will announce that at long last the National Committee is out of debt and has a "small reserve" to launch this year's presidential campaign. Butler is telling insiders the "small reserve" amounts to $100,000. He considers that a "notable achievement" in view of the fact the National Committee wound up the 1956 election with an $800,000 debt. . . . The House and Senate Democratic Campaign Committees are in much better shape. Each has some $200,000 to start this year's electioneering.

At last week's Governors' Conference, Michigan's G. Mennen Williams let other state executives know that the cabinet post he aspires to is Secretary of Health, Education & Welfare — and not the Labor Department, as had been reported. Said Williams, "Of course, I haven't been offered anything as yet. But my preference is HEW."

Veep Hopefuls — Senator Eugene McCarthy, Minn., appears to be quite popular as a vice presidential prospect. He has been told by leaders of both Senators Lyndon Johnson and Stuart Symington that they would "seriously consider" him as running mate in the event they are nominated. McCarthy vigorously supported the presidential aspirations of Senator Hubert Humphrey until he withdrew. Humphrey stands high on Senator Kennedy's list of running mate possibilities. . . . Henry Lee Moon, press director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), is saying that Governor Collins, Fla., would be "acceptable" as the Democratic vice presidential nominee.

A handsome illustrated brochure has been issued by home state admirers to boost the vice presidential hopes of Senator Henry Jackson, Wash. Featuring an earnest picture of him on the front page, the leaflet shows Jackson engaged in a wide range of activities, including steering an atom-powered submarine with the help of Admiral Hyman Rickover, famed "father" of these ships.

Comic Buddy Hackett's self-description: "I'm not a real human being, you know—I'm a cartoon." . . . Jack Lemmon's sharp caper-cutting in "The Apartment" film. . . . Incidentally, the Saturday Review's critic describes the cinema as "a pretty fairy tale with a schnook for a hero." (Tro.) . . . The May Britt-Sammy Davis Jr. headlines. Sammy has lured newspaper space before with his "engagements" . . . George Jessel, Jack Leonard and Joe E. Lewis being only a few of the comics getting their loudest laugh with a quip that originated here: Sammy Davis Jr., should call May Britt—"B'nai Britt. . . ."

Lucille Ball's accident. Flowers from Desi and Bob Hope beat her to Lebanon hosp. Desi sent Hope this wire: "I was her straight man for 19 years and never pushed her a . . . Why couldn't you control yourself?" Lucille's nurse at their Delmar Beach home is the husband she allegedly divorced. . . . The Broadway theater returning to normal after the labor-management dispute. Peace, it's wonderful—and profitable. . . . M. Monroe's hard-to-believe comment: "Honestly, I like getting older." . . . The new tune with the goddardest title: "Itsy Bitsy Teenie Weenie Yellow Polkadot Bikini." . . . Juliet Prowse's declaration of independence: "I've mixed around in this business long enough not to be embarrassed by anything pertaining to sex." (Wheeee!) . . . The blazing headlines about Truman canceling his visit to the Democratic convention. That's just peachy. H'wood is already overcrowded with small-time comedians.

Gene Fowler, one of the newspaper greats, leaving us who knew him with a heavy heart. . . . He was m.e. of the old New York Morning Telegraph when the Beau Broadway column on Sundays was authorized by this dept. . . . He was the only one who knew it. . . . As a Hearst editor he clashed with the Chief over his incorrigibility, and was ordered: "Go away someplace— all expenses paid. Go far, far away. Signed: W. R. Hearst."

When Fowler arrived in Cairo, Egypt, he called Mr. Hearst at San Simeon: "Is this far enough, boss? Love, "Gene."

The curious title of an upcoming flicker: "Hoodlum Priest." . . . The Oscar-rating notices for the "Oscar Wilde" thriller. Robert Morley makes headache, nausea and vomiting, purposeless movements, muscle cramping, choking, difficulty in speaking or swallowing, drowsiness, restlessness, confusion, dryness of the mouth, excessive thirst, an inadequate supply of oxygen and diarrhea.

Naturally, all of these are not present in all cases. If two or three of them occur, the safest thing is to suspect heatstroke, make the victim rest and summon a doctor.

Reduce temperature. Most important thing to do is to reduce the body temperature as rapidly as possible. But, since such procedures might result in complications, it's best to have a doctor on hand to supervise the treatment.

One method of reducing the temperature is by evaporative cooling.

In this type of treatment, the patient is wrapped in wet sheets and electric fans are permitted to blow on the sheets. Meanwhile, the patient's skin is massaged through the wet sheets. This helps increase circulation in the constricted blood vessels.

Ice Water Baths. Ice water baths are also used by some doctors to treat heatstroke.

Immersion in a tub of ice water brings rapid cooling and effectively lowers blood pressure.

But, again, better have a doctor present before such measures are undertaken, unless, of course, it is an emergency.

Question And Answer. T. F.: Are hot oil treatments for the scalp of any benefit?

Answer: The massage employed undoubtedly helps to stimulate the scalp although the hot oil in itself may not do any good.

Heatstroke is the most serious illness caused by warm weather. Unfortunately, it is frequently fatal. In fact, it is estimated that only 20 percent of those stricken recover. Minor exposure, too. While prolonged or severe exposure to heat is the sole precipitating factor in many cases, you can suffer heatstroke by what you may believe to be relatively minor heat exposure.

Sunburn is an example. This may interfere with heat regulation by causing loss of vasomotor control and sweating in the burned areas despite an increase in body temperature.

Sweating A Factor. On the other hand, excessive sweating also may launch a chain reaction which leads to heatstroke.

Usually, some form of malfunction of the body's sweating mechanism is involved in a heatstroke. This usually is coupled with excessive environmental heat, excessive humidity, low wind velocity and impaired general physical condition.

The healthier you are, the less likely you are to succumb to the heat.

Likely Victims. Alcoholics, the aged, persons who are obese and those with arteriosclerosis are the best candidates for heatstroke.

The symptoms in order of their frequency are faintness, a staggering gait, dizziness, headache, nausea and vomiting, purposeless movements, muscle cramping, choking, difficulty in speaking or swallowing, drowsiness, restlessness, confusion, dryness of the mouth, excessive thirst, an inadequate supply of oxygen and diarrhea.

Vinyl Latex Ideal For Exteriors

NEW SPRED Glide-On exterior vinyl latex paint is the ideal paint for stucco, brick, concrete and asbestos shingle siding. It's a durable protection against sun . . . fumes . . . and mildew.

Spred Glide-On is a revolutionary new finish for exterior masonry surfaces — available in beautiful pastels and deeper shades, plus attractive let-downs that can be easily made by intermixing Spred Glide-On colors with tinting white.

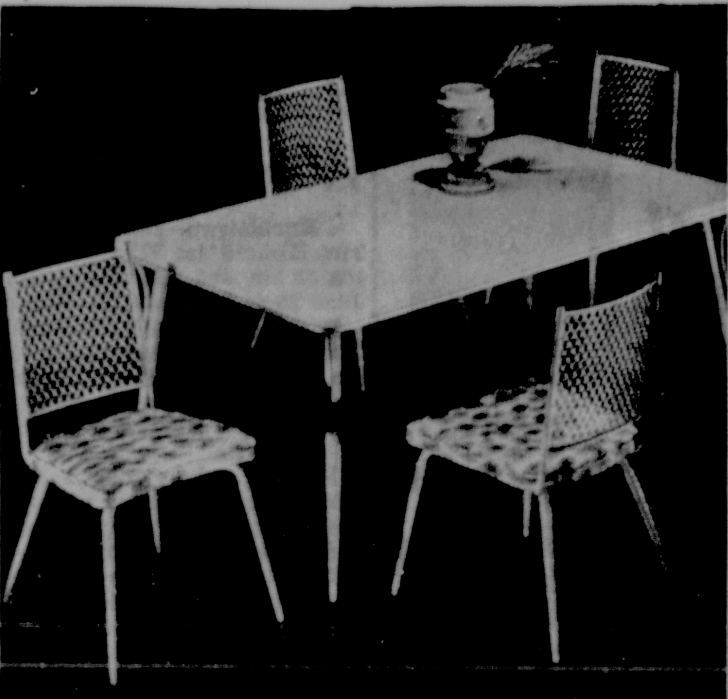

Spred Glide-On gives you the same properties you have enjoyed with Spred Satin inside your home. Goes on twice as fast as ordinary masonry finishes. Can be brushed, rolled or sprayed. Dries in minutes, completely dust free, to a beautiful, durable, suede-like finish. Keeps out moisture, yet the surface "breathes" to let vapor escape from inside, preventing blistering. Completely resistant to the alkalinity usually found in asbestos shingles and masonry.

Resists Straining
The tough vinyl latex film of Spred Glide-On resists, driving rains, hottest sunshine, mildew, snow and ice, sea air and salt-water spray, strongest smog, dust and chemical fumes. Colors will not fade — they stay bright, new-looking after ordinary finishes grow weak and dull. Resists cracking, peeling, blistering, acid and alkali action.

Spred Glide-On is another product of the Glidden Company makers of the famous Spred Satin . . . and is available in Stroudsburg at Fetherman's Paint store . . . 1016 W. Main St.

Driving Is Fun In A Renault Dauphine

LOOKING for the "old thrill" of driving? Enthusiastic owners of the smart little Renault Dauphine are finding that "Driving is fun again" in a Renault. The reasons are endless . . . economy . . . ease of handling . . . ease of parking, etc.

Take economy for instance; the Dauphine gets up to 40 miles per gallon of gas . . . change the oil, a mere 2 1/4 quarts do the job. Ease of handling on the open road or in downtown traffic is a "snap" . . . you move around with unbelievable ease. Parking is accomplished with untold ease.

The Dauphine is a four-door sedan with many plus features not offered in any other car. To get to the spare tire, one need not even open the trunk. A high efficiency heater is included on all models as are turn signals. One delightful little extra is the town and country horn. A flip of the switch gives a soft town signal while the other position gives a loud road clearing command.

To learn more about the Renault Dauphine, stop in at Barrett Auto Service, Post Office Building, Mountainhome.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

Born near Hodgenville, Kentucky, February 12, 1809. He attended school only a year but acquired a good education by reading every book he could borrow. A copy of Blackstone's Commentaries prompted him to study law in Springfield, Illinois.

At 23 he was serving as a captain in the Black Hawk War. At 25 he was a member of the Illinois legislature and in 1848 he was elected a Whig member of the U. S. House of Representatives.

Aroused by the repeal of the Missouri Compromise, Lincoln joined the new Republican party and as a candidate for the Senate was defeated in the election of 1858. His debates with Stephen A. Douglas, his opponent and author of the repeal, made him known throughout the nation. The Republicans nominated him for President and he was elected in 1860.

Inaugurated the sixteenth President of the United States, March 4, 1861. Seven Southern states had seceded and formed the Confederate States of America. The bombardment of Fort Sumter, April 12, 1861, began the Civil War. For four years, until Richmond fell, he was ridiculed, statesmen deserted him and there was talk of forcing him to resign. His one thought was for the Union. When it was saved, forgiveness became his ruling passion.

He was elected for a second term only to be struck down by an assassin's bullet in Ford's Theatre, Washington, D.C. He died the next day, April 15, 1865, aged 56.

HANNIBAL HAMLIN

Born in Paris, Maine, 1809. He attended Hebron Academy. At 21 he began the study of law. Four years later he was admitted to the bar and began the practice of law in Maine.

He served as a Democratic member of the State legislature, 1836-40, as a member of the U. S. House of Representatives, 1843-47, and as United States Senator, 1848-56. As a Republican he was elected Governor of Maine in 1856 and served again as a United States Senator from 1857 to 1861.

Elected with Lincoln, he served as Vice-President of the United States, 1861-65. He had been a great help to Lincoln and appeared to be the logical candidate to succeed himself in the election of 1864. He lost his chance to become President when Andrew Johnson was nominated in his place on the theory that Johnson would give the Republican party greater national strength. He served again as United States Senator, 1869-81 and as Minister to Spain, 1881-83. He died in 1891.

MRS. ABRAHAM LINCOLN

Born in 1818, Mary Todd was an attractive and popular Kentucky belle. She was married at twenty-four to Abraham Lincoln. Socially trained, an intelligent and witty conversationalist and possessed of a sparkling personality, she would, under happier conditions, have made a delightful White House mistress. But the gloom of war, the death in 1862 of a young son and cruel attacks on her loyalty, as Southern born, provided no fit setting for social triumphs. Trying to cheer her overburdened husband, she herself was fighting melancholia. In shattered health after the assassination of her husband, she left Washington to struggle for years against illness. She died in 1882.

Strongest Team Headed For Rome

THE UNITED STATES will go to Rome next month with probably its strongest men's track and field team in the history of the games.

A team so strong, that it cracked 13 of 17 Olympic tryout records at Stanford Friday and Saturday and two world records.

There is even a strong chance that the American team can win the 1,500 meter run (metric mile), something that hasn't been done in 52 years.

The last American winner was M. W. Sheppard, who posted a 1:52.4 time.

Burleson Holds Mile Hopes

This year the American hope is Dyrrol Burleson, who won the tryouts with a 3:46.9 clocking, well off the Olympic record of 3:41.2 set in the last games by Ireland's Ron Delaney.

But Burleson, one of two Americans who has ever run a sub-four minutes mile, was pushed only on the last half lap of Saturday's race.

He stayed in the pack for the first lap but when the field was timed in a slow 60-plus seconds for the first quarter-mile, Burleson broke to the front and was never headed.

The Americans stand a strong chance of winning every race under 1,500 meters.

Norton Could Break Ten Seconds

Ray Norton, who many believe to be the "fastest man alive," should have little trouble in the 100 and 200 meter dashes.

A notoriously slow man out of the starting block, Norton if he ever does get a good start, may become the first sprinter to run the 100 meters under 10 seconds.

He was timed in 10.4 for the century Friday night and Saturday broke the world record for the 200 meters (around a curve), posting a 20.5 time.

Stene Johnson, who finished second to Norton in the finals, also broke the record in a trial heat, with a time of 20.5.

Calhoun, Davis, One-Two Hurdle Punch

Tom Murphy appears a shoot-in for the 800-meter event and Lee Calhoun and Glen Davis should share the two hurdle titles. Davis, the defending 400-meter hurdles and world record holder, had been ineffective this year, before the trials.

He even admitted that he thought he had lost his speed. But he found it in California, with a 49.5 timing, only three seconds off his world mark and six-tenths of a second faster than the Olympic standard.

The lone question mark in the sprint picture is the 400 meters.

Jack Yerman, a bespectacled Californian, grabbed the try-out title in 46.3, well off the Olympic record but four-tenths of a second better than the winning time at Melbourne in 1956.

Yerman's First Big Win

But it was Yerman's first big win and the biggest upset of the two-day meet. The Californian will have more than enough chances to prove it was no fluke in the three exhibition track meets the Olympic squad will take part in before leaving for Rome.

The United States can also be counted on for winning at least six of the field events and with some luck could take all nine.

The three dark spots are the hop, step, jump, where the favorite is Ferreira da Silva of Brazil; the javelin, with Norway's Egil Danielsen, the man to beat, while the final field event, the decathlon, is a toss-up between Rafer Johnson, Plainfield, N. J., and Vassily Kuznetsov of Russia.

In May, 1959, the Russian broke Johnson's World's Record by 52 points.

Johnson, who has been hampered by injuries for almost a year, will go to Rome, if he passes the Olympic trial later this month, as probably the most determined team member.

For Johnson was on the sidelines with an injury, when Kuznetsov broke his record.

Pirates Split With Braves But Maintain 3½ Game Lead

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates maintained their 3½ game grip on first place in the National League Monday by bouncing back to defeat Milwaukee 7-2 after the runnerup Braves had fought from behind for a 7-6 victory in a 10-inning opener of a holiday twin bill.

Southpaw Harvey Haddix settled down after a shaky start and hurled a six-hitter in defeating the Braves for the fourth straight time this year and preserving Pittsburgh's first place margin.

Crandall Homers
The Braves thrilled a partisan crowd of 38,578 by rallying from a 6-1 deficit to win the first game on Al Spangler's single to short left center.

After Del Crandall tied the count by hitting a pitch from 12th homer with the bases empty in the ninth, Eddie Mathews worked a walk and stole second after two out. Spangler then came through with the decisive hit.

Sanford Blanks Cubs 4-0; 2nd Game called After 14

CHICAGO (AP)—Jack Sanford blanked the Chicago Cubs 4-0 on four hits in hurling the San Francisco Giants to victory in the opener of a doubleheader Monday, but the relief pitching went for nothing in a 1-1 tie game called after 14 innings because of darkness.

The second game will be replayed at a later date. The loss dropped the Cubs back into the cellar below 36,569 fans, largest Wrigley Field crowd of the season. Sanford boosted his record to 8-5 and gained his fifth shutout of the season in the first game as Willie Mays and Bob Schmidt backed him with home runs.

Mays Hits 18th
Mays, the major league batter, slammed his No. 18 homer in the 6th inning and his 21st double in the 8th in three official trips. In the nightcap he extended his successive hitting streak through 19 games with a pair of singles in six times at bat. For the two games he collected four hits in nine trips to

Senators Edge Yankees

WASHINGTON (AP)—Washington backed into a 9-8 decision over New York Monday when Ryne Duren walked Reno Bertoia with the bases full in the ninth inning after three and a half hours of wacky holiday baseball.

The defeat coupled with Cleveland's two victories over Kansas City cut the Yanks' lead over the second place Indians to 1½ games. The Senators filled the bases with none out in the ninth on a double by Bill Gardner, a hit by Duren and a safe bunt by Dan Dobbek. Duren apparently regained control when he made Julio Becquer ground into a force-out at home and fanned Pete Whisenant. But then the right-hander threw four straight balls to Bertoia to end the Yankees' six-game winning streak.

Mantle Homers

Mickey Mantle smashed his 20th of the season and the 300th of his career in the first with two aboard and the Senators were fighting from behind from that point on.

Hector Lopez, Gil McDougald and Bob Cerf also hit Yankee homers, boosting the team's major league-leading total to 97 for the season.

Jim Lemon smacked his 20th homer for Washington and Pete Whisenant his first.

The Senators finally tied it in the eighth on a walk to Whisenant, a sacrifice and a single by Bob Allison.

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians whipped the Kansas City Athletics twice Monday in a Holiday doubleheader, 4-0 and 7-4, cutting New York's American League lead to 1½ games.

Gary Bell (7-6) pitched a three-hitter in the opener, posting his first victory in almost a month and his second shutout of the season—Both against Kansas City.

Extend String
John Romano blasted a pair of home runs in the nightcap and Ken Aspromonte hit a two-run homer. Ted Bowsfield (4-4) was credited with the second game triumph. He pitched seven innings and left with Cleveland in front 4-3. Johnny Klipsch hurled the final two frames.

The Indians turned in four double plays in the second game as they stretched their winning string to five.

Bath Downs Strouds To Halt Streak

THE Strouds, doing all their scoring in the first two innings Sunday, edged Easton, 4-3, but snapped their five game winning streak yesterday when league-leading Bath handed them an 11-5 wallop.

Evans Reese won Sunday's tilt as he pitched the first five innings. Bill Metzger replaced Reese to carry out the last four innings.

Two out of three extra-base hits, all doubles, were belted by John Brunner and Ernie Howe of the Strouds. It was a close game all the way, with ten hits for Easton and 12 for the Strouds.

Late Threat
The Eastonites threatened in the last inning scoring two runs to bring them within one run of the Strouds.

Yesterday's game at Bath saw the league-leaders topple 15 Strouds from their five game winning streak perch. The Strouds record stands at eight wins and nine losses.

Hot Sommers
Sommers stroked five hits in seven appearances in the twin-bill, including two home runs and a triple in the nightcap.

Stan Roebor posted four hits in five trips in the second game to pace a 16-hit attack. Carl Motts won the first game, although he allowed 12 hits. Sommers was the winner in the second, scattering three singles and fanning 13.

The Tanners lost their hitting shoes Monday, poking only eight singles but Doug Price allowed Sailorsburg only four singles, while striking out 13.

The Sailors had a chance in the fifth. They loaded the bases with only one out. But Price posted a strikeout and a force out and ground out ended the uprising with only one run across.

West End scored 31 runs in moving to its sixth and seventh victories.

Short Game
Sunday, the second-place Gilbert club smacked Eastern Poconos 15-5 in a five inning game.

The game was called in the fifth when R. Frederick, Pocono manager ran into a light pole and was unable to continue. The losers did not have a substitute and the umpire halted the game.

L. Hill posted three hits for the winners, while J. Steele managed two singles for the Poconos.

West End, which edged Kunkletown by a lone run in their first meeting, pushed across nine runs in the last two innings to break a 7-7 deadlock and hand the K-towners their third loss in nine games.

Altemose went the route for the winners, walking four and fanning four, while the losers worked three pitchers in an unsuccessful attempt to quiet the Gilbert bats.

Three Had Three
R. Smith, Faust and Altemose each had three hits for the winners, while Nicholas rapped a double and two singles for the losers who dropped three games off the pace.

Kunkletown scored in every inning but the sixth and seventh in downing Bushkill Monday.

Nicholas collected three doubles and S. Kresge three singles to trigger a 19-hit Kunkletown attack.

Litts rapped a double and single for Bushkill, which was checked on five hits by Kresge and Borger.

Reeders slipped across two runs in the ninth to shade Aniaknik.

Sam Bonser accounted for four hits and Paul Frailey and Steele slashed four base hits on five trips for the losers, who dropped eight games behind front running Tannersville.

Hansen's Mental Lapse Keeps Birds From Sweep

BOSTON (AP)—Two unearned runs driven in by big guns Ron Hansen and Jim Gentile provided Baltimore's 8-6, nightcap victory over Boston Monday as the faltering Orioles twice blew six-run leads in the doubleheader split.

The Red Sox won the opener 10-7 when Baltimore second baseman Mary Breeding's mental lapse proved the turning point in a winning five-run rally.

Frank Malzone, Boston all star third baseman, made two errors—one throwing and one fielding—in the eighth inning of the second contest. With Brandt on second and two out, all star shortstop Hansen singled to center for the deciding tally and his 51st RBI of the season.

Poor Start

Gentile, who entered the game leading the league with a .335 average but had gone 0-for-5, lost a pop single behind second to make it 8-6.

Southpaw Billy Hoelt, third Baltimore pitcher, turned in three sparkling innings of relief for the victory.

Holds Ball

Hansen tugged a three-run double to put Baltimore ahead 6-0 in the third inning of the opener. The Red Sox chopped away at the lead until they trailed 7-5 going into the eighth.

Conley Hurls Phillies To Split With Redlegs

CINCINNATI (AP)—Lanley Gene Conley, backed up by some extra base hits pitched Philadelphia's Phils to a 5-2 victory over Cincinnati Monday in the windup of a holiday doubleheader.

Young Jay Hook had pitched a masterful 4-hitter, shutting out the Phils 5-0 in the opener.

Conley had a three-hit shutout going through six innings, but the Reds punched out two runs in the seventh on three singles by Roy McMillan's sacrifice fly.

Scatters Hits

The Reds tagged Conley for eight hits, but most were scattered harmlessly. He didn't walk a man.

Hook went all the way for the fifth time this season in his shut-out.

Wally Post, a retired Redleg brought back from the Phils in a June 15 trade, banged a homer in the first inning that gave Hook a two-run edge.

The Daily Investor

Trying To Start A Fight?

By William A. Doyle

Q: In cleaning out my desk today, I came across an "analysis" of my investments made about eight years ago. The analysis was done, free of charge, by a well-known brokerage firm. It suggested that I sell certain of the stock I held and buy certain other stocks.

I did not act on these suggestions. I was familiar with the companies in which I held stock and knew next to nothing about the stocks it was suggested that I buy. The stocks that I held (I still own them) have done very well in market price and dividends. The stocks suggested to me have not done nearly as well.

Are these so-called "experts" qualified to analyze other peoples' investments?

A. What are you trying to do — start a fight with all the securities analysts in the financial district?

Some analysts are darned good; some are pretty good; some are not so good; some are — you can take it from there.

None of them is ever right all the time. And a guy could hardly stay in the business if he was wrong all the time.

The big complaints come about those who do claim to be just about perfect.

The important point to remember is that there is no such thing as a complete knowledge about things financial. There are only varying degrees of ignorance.

Q. Recently I saw an article which dealt with the "cash flow" of oil companies. It stated that the cash flow was often very much higher than the earnings reported by the companies and that it might enable the companies to maintain their dividends at or near their current levels despite sharply reduced earnings.

Can you explain this in simple language?

A. It's worth a try. The earnings of a company are the net profits of the company. Almost everybody understands that.

The cash flow of a company is the net profit, plus certain other items that appear on the company's profit and loss statement, such as amounts charged off for depreciation, depletion, amortization, extraordinary charges to reserves and the like.

Those items appear as expenses on the profit and loss statement. But they are really only bookkeeping deductions. They are not paid out in dollars and cents. The company keeps the money. It is cash in the till, even though it does not appear as earnings.

By adding these bookkeeping items to net earnings, many companies do have a big cash flow. This is especially true of oil companies.

So, it might be assumed that an oil company with a big cash flow would have no trouble continuing to pay dividends to its stockholders — even if the company's net earnings dipped very low.

However, oil companies have always used their big cash flow for drilling of new wells, exploration, development, construction, etc. An oil company needs a lot of money, if it is to operate successfully over the long haul.

Look at it this way. A big cash flow may enable an oil company to maintain its dividend. But it is no guarantee.

The University of Pittsburgh seminar which ran from June 13 through July 1 was under the direction of Robert L. Brown, Assistant Professor of Administration. ## Rates 'Kiss Me Kate' High On Theatre-Goers' List

By Jack Savitt

AT ROSS Common Playhouse in Wind Gap last Friday night an appreciative audience viewed Cole Porter's great musical "Kiss Me Kate."

Too often plays of such magnitude are belittled by stock groups and summer theater players but on this occasion little can be said disparagingly of the fine tutelage by Director-Actor-Producer, Bunker Jenkins and his sterling performers.

The leads played by Ronald Knight and Joanna Simon were well sung and executed. Knight, a Barrymore-profiled Petruccio, tall and graceful captivated the audience with his fine tenor voice, and exceptional acting.

Joanna Simon, as Kate was well suited to the part. She carried herself feline-like for her tall stature, and truly looked the part of a shrew with her long blond tresses, and she-cat facial expressions.

Her vigorous and vitriolic acting was welcomed by the audience who especially liked her brutal idiosyncrasy of pounding a copper mug which she dented out of proportion and function during the song, "I Hate Men."

Barbara Lamson as Bianca shone during the performance of "Toni, Dick and Harry," but at times seemed to be acting for herself rather than the audience. Ronald Bostick, a top-flight dancer breezed through his numbers with ease, but his singing left much to be desired. Carol Jacobus, a pixie-faced flower was a lithe and charming dance performer.

The high point in the show was the introduction of the gangster. On every instance Jenkins in this companion in crime, Jim Dwyer, scored heavily with audience humor, although during the soft-shoe dance routine their performance was so delightfully scandalous several members of the audience placed their hands over their mouths to hold back the laughter. Jim Dwyer's facial expressions, and open-mouthed adonoid utterings bettered anything by Damon Runyon. Bob Schur, as Harrison Howell, a millionaire who rose from the ranks to money and humorous snobbishness as well as patrician indolence "snoozed" his role with excellence.

It is fitting, perhaps, to mention again the singing of Knight and Miss Simon, especially during the tender songs. They both had the audience in complete mesmerization. The confetti ending of "Kiss Me Kate," the finale "Brush up Your Shakespeare" had the audience enthused enough to applaud until their palms were florid.
